ABOUT COLUMBUS

Set on the banks of the Chattahoochee River, Columbus, Georgia features some of the most renowned outdoor adventures in the United States. Columbus has long been known for embracing the outdoors; the area offers a retreat for hiking, mountain biking, the country's only dual-state zipline, and what many have called the "best urban whitewater rafting in the world", via local rafting business Whitewater Express. Pack your running shoes and enjoy 60 miles of exercise paths along the Chattahoochee RiverWalk and Dragonfly Trail system, both steps from our hotel. Dive into the city's past and enjoy many of our historical markers, including seven distinct historic districts and blocks of restored Victorian homes, The Black Heritage Trail, and over thirty heritage landmarks. Additionally, we are proud of the diverse activity and entertainment possibilities in our thriving Uptown area including art galleries; museums; restaurants, and two performing arts and entertainment venues. From nature to nightlife, Columbus offers an unforgettable experience to both its visitors and residents.
