

BURIED HISTORY:

SAVANNAH'S AFRICAN AMERICAN LEGACY

FREE DIGITAL TOUR
WITH WALKING AND DRIVING OPTIONS

Buried History: Savannah's African American Legacy shares stories of black Savannahians, highlighting their contributions to Savannah's history, economy, and culture. Buried History will take you to archaeological sites and reveal history that is often forgotten and ignored. Explore publicly available historical sites such as Mother Matilda Beasley's house, pictured above. Read hidden stories of well known landmarks such as the Whitefield Square cemetery, violence in Wright Square during the 1868 presidential election, and the slave market behind the Customs House. The app also tells stories of persistence and success, such as the Kiah Museum and First Bryan Baptist Church. The tour is available in two digital versions: a walking tour of downtown and a driving tour that takes you beyond downtown. Access the tour: bit.ly/BHSAAL

SAVANNAH
ARCHAEOLOGICAL
ALLIANCE

BURIED HISTORY: SAVANNAH'S AFRICAN AMERICAN LEGACY

Get updates and news:

- savarchaeoalliance.org
- instagram.com/savarchaeoalliance
- facebook.com/savarchaeoalliance

Above: The King-Tisdell Cottage

Below: Second African Baptist Church

SAVANNAH
ARCHAEOLOGICAL
ALLIANCE

Georgia
Humanities

Sharing stories that move us and make us

This project is supported by Georgia Humanities through appropriations made by the Georgia General Assembly.